

Dr. Howard Stevenson is the Constance E. Clayton Professor of Urban Education and Professor of Africana Studies at the University of Pennsylvania. A celebrated clinician, researcher and author, Dr. Stevenson will help us cultivate racial literacy, teach us how to intentionally address our own biases and beliefs about race, and help our organizations and systems of care find workable strategies to read, resolve and recast racial encounters, practices and policies with intention.